Personal data will be processed through cookies when a user has identified themselves through a name or email address that identifies them, or when they use unique identifiers that allow certain users to be distinguished from others and to be tracked individually. For additional detailed information on the rights of users and the processing of their personal data through cookies on this website, you can consult the privacy policy here.

Acceptance, refusal and configuration of cookies

As indicated in the previous section, you can consent to the use of all cookies on your device:

- i.) By clicking on the "Accept Cookies" button to the cookie configurator on this website, which you can access through the cookie banner or through this policy, or
- ii.) By selecting all the options provided and then clicking the "Save preference" button on the cookie configurator of this website, which you can access through the cookie banner or through this policy.

On the other hand, as indicated in the previous section, you may refuse your consent to the use of all the cookies on your device:

- i.) By clicking the "Reject Cookies" button on the cookie configurator of this website, which you can access through the cookies banner or through this policy.

Please note that if you accept third-party cookies, these must be deleted from the browser options or from the system offered by the third party for this purpose.

We remind you that you can delete the browsing history (including cookies) from your browser by consulting the options and instructions provided by your browser.

You can choose, at any time, among the cookies which cookies to allow and which cookies to reject for use on your device and give your consent to this end. At the cookie configurator on this website, you can enable the cookies that you decide to allow on your device or prevent the activation of those cookies that you decide not to allow on your device, by selecting or deselecting them respectively, and then clicking on the "Configure Cookies" button.
